

The Bells should not have regulations lifted from DSL broadband access. Doing so would kill my small web-based sales business. Why? With SBC I cannot operate a server at a residential location. But any number of ISPs offer DSL service to me without this restriction and at a cheaper price.